Hemlock leak in the Cafeteria. Where did that hole in the floor come from? snake-rattle glow and the students finding. Society spectacles locked in unspent.

Soonafter and thereafter The dispensary was allowed decryption by decree of the honorable satelite of misguided stairghost. The universe circumscribbled by words, when will it be enough?

. . . birds and poor peculiar Rafinesque, who'd died in a garret downtown . . . gossip and the imagination and the perils of not observing the world directly . . .

Yet treatment for the seven-year ailment was peculiar. The pamphlets were printed as if nothing was different. Sports camp kids with poison-tipped arrows. Bleed into this bedpan we'll call your mother tomorrow.

'where -' 'Never mind Mr. Audubon,' quoth the eccentric naturalist, 'never mind. I'll soon arrange them again. I have the bats, and that's enough.'

Will that if class dissapears then all will be in visibility. If walls dissapear then unnotice the bookshelf. The pull of the magnet lost deep in the cellar will gravitate in pizza Rafinesque and his filings.

My only reservation about this book is the inclusion of Constantine Samuel Rafinesque's proven hoax the Walum Olum . . . the notes do not allow readers to review the problematic history of the Walum Olum manuscript. In short, the Walam Olum is presented as a bona fide "epic" of the Delaware.
